Popular Routes Through New York, Brooklyn, and Environs Thronged Throughout the Day-The Century Road Club of Amer-ica Again Offers a Tempting Array of Prizes.

It was roughly estimated that fully 30,000 deycle riders hereabouts took advantage of the first day of spring yesterday to make trips Throughout the day the Boulevard, Central Park, and Riverside Drive were crowded with riders, a great number of whom were comen. The recent rains left the country roads in rather poor shape for long runs, so that the riding was mostly confined to the city limits and adjoining macadam roads. New riders, mounted on the latest model wheels and attired in fresh outfits, were very noticeable among the rowd who travelled over the popular routes. Among the women contingent diamond frame wheels and bloomer suits seemed to be the vogue. The club men, in parties of six and eight, visited all the old bicycle resorts, and manifested great delight at the return of the ideal weather. Some of the well-seasoned road-riding members of the Harlem, Riverside. Manhattan, and Century wheelmen rode up as far as Tarrytown, but the masses out yesterday were taking their initial ride of the year, and ontented themselves with short runs. The scorching element was in evidence on the Riverside Drive in the morning, but attempts at fast riding and impromptu brushes with rival club men provoked warning from the police, and such practices were discontinued.

The bicycle section in Brooklyn, which includes Sixth avenue, Berkeley place, Bedford avenue, Sackett Street Boulevard, Prospect Park, and the cycle path, was alive with the stored away during the winter months took advantage of the pleasant weather and made tracks for the park and cycle path early in the day. Only one path is open on the Boulevard, and as a result the riders were pretty well crowded travelling up and down. Loud complaint was made at the delay in fixing the Coney Island path.

The bicycle girls were out in force in Brooklyn, several hundred women passing through the park and down to Bath Beach. The bicycle police stated that the number of riders out yesterday was far above the average for this time of the year. The uncertain condition of the roads on Long Island at the time was responsible for the big turnout on the cycle path. Members of the Brooklyn, Kings County, Logan, Long Island, South Brooklyn, and Nassau wheelmen rode around Fort Hamilton, Bay Ridge, and down to Bath Beach, which has become the pop-ular rendezvous for riders from the City of Churches.

Churches. New Jersey, boasting of some of the finest macadam roads in the country, naturally was well patronized. The Newark riders took in the Orango riding district, while crowds rode over to Miburn to see the condition of the famous old race course and judge of its fitness for the year's big race. About 800 riders, representing clubs from all sections, made Bergen Point the objective point for their runs. Riders from this city, Jersey City and other points rode over the Hudson County boulevard to its terminus at Bayonne. sayonne.

The bicycle establishments did a good business renting wheels and the repair men reaped a har-

The Associated Cycling Clubs of Philadelphia, under whose auspices the annual meet of the L. A. W. will be held this year, have elected the following officers: President, Thomas Hare; Vice-President, J. J. Gesselman; Treasurer, J. A. L. Corson; Secretary, D. R. Perkenpine. The arrangements for the national meet will now be pushed with vigor. It is expected that the champtonship races will be held on the Willow Grove track. It is said that Chairman Mott of the National Racing Board has suggested to the association the advisability of holding the meet during the second or third week in August instead of the first as originally intended. This change, if adopted, will allow for a more satisfactory arrangement of the national circuit dates.

San Francisco, March 21.—The following Australian cycling news has been received here: At the meeting of the League of Victoria Wheelmen, held at Melbourne on Feb. 16, the match between the fast flyer, Billy Martin of America, and the colonial one-mile champion, Ren Lewis, over three distances, one, ten, and five miles, took place. Lewis won, capturing theone and ten mile events, in 2:49 2-5 and 24:40, respectively. Martin's time for the five-mile race was 11,11. Martin, in consequence of suspicious riding, was disqualified by the league for two years, but will appeal. A large crowd was present at the race, and large sums of money changed hands. The three events were run in a rainstorm, and were paced. Lewis has also been suspended by the league pending an investigation.

The award of individual and club prizes by the Century Road Club of America last year revived interest in road riding and some large records in meleage and century run competition resulted. In order to increase the interest in road riding this year, the club has decided to continue its awards. W. L. Krietenstein, the Chairman of the Records Committee, has issued the following conditions for competition:

Mileage Contests—First, second, and third prizes for the largest individual mileage and century records made by members of the C. R. C. during 1897 will again be awarded.

made by members of the C. R. C. during 100, who again be awarded.

A gold meritorious medal will be offered by the club through each State centurion in divisions having a membership of ten or more at the close of the year. The nature of these State medal competitions to be decided by the respective State centurions, either for greatest mileage, greatest number of centuries, or most meritorious single ride. The various State centurions are securized to amounce the nature of the competitions at once.

The Century Road Club century banner will again be awarded to the club riding the greatest number of centuries during the year. This competition is open to all bicycle clubs. Centuries must be ridden in a coordance with the rules governing century rides as laid down by the C. R. C. All claims for the banner at the end of the year must show date of each century and by whom ridden, and must be properly approved by the President and Secretary of each comprised by the President and Secretary of each comprised of daily mileage must be forwarded to the Chairman of the committee semi-monthly.

Hereafter the committee must be furnished with detailed reports covering all mileage claimed. Each day's riding must be given in detail and submitted in such a way that there can be no grounds for suspicion that the nileage as reported was not ridden.

At the close of the year, each and every claim will receive a thorough comparison with the century bar applications in the hands of the Secretary. If it is the intention of any contestant to try for the national mileage record or otherwise roll up an unusually large mileage, a checking book must be invariably used. Blanks for reporting mileage will be furnished upon applications.

JERSEYMAN BUYS A HORSE.

Thinks He Is a Circus Horse and Tries to Make Rim Perform in the Street.

Frederick Mayor a Jorsey teamster came over from Jersey City Saturday afternoon on horsebuying thought's intent. He had no sooner put foot on Manhattan Island than he took a drink and then another, which was followed, at a ju-dicious interval, by a third. Then he started uptown for Seventy-third street and East River, where there is a horse market. The way to the market from Cortlandt street was long, but so was the afternoon, and the Jerseyman took his time to get there, and, also additional whiskey, and, consequently, when he finally arrived, he could scarcely be called sober.

He bought his horse, a broad-backed bay, and bought some more drinks to seal the bargain. Then, with his horse in tow, he started for the ferry again. As he went through Seventy-third street it was noticed that he and his horse took street it was noticed that he and his horse took up nearly the whole street, but, as they made fairly good progress, no one objected. Meyer was happy in the bargain he had made, and he smiled and chuckled to himself as he went along, stopping now and then to pat his newly bought property and win its affections.

As the two neared Sixty-sixth street and Fifth arenue a strange sound was heard, a muffled bellow, and the horse pricked up his ears and began to prance.

bellow, and the horse pricked up his ears and began to prance.

"Whoa!" said Meyer, pulling at the halter.

"Vat de matter mit you was alreity?"
Again came the muffled bellow from the direction of the park. Again pranced the horse.

"Mein Gott!" remonstrated Meyer. "Vy you don'dt keep shtill, now!" and he tugged again at the halter.

A third time came the noise, this time reinforced by minor ones, and the horse pranced again. Meyer stood still and thought. At last he smilled.

inforced by minor ones, and the horse pranced again. Meyer stood still and thought. At last he smiled.

"Ach I know vat it vas. It vas dot Bill Leary mit his lions dot vas roaring. But, vhy does dis horse agt like dis!"

He looked at his horse and winked, and then the horse whished back at him.

"Mein Gott!" exclaimed the Jersey man. "I hap it now shtill. Mine horse vasto a circurious belonged. I vill try him."

Meyer stood in front of his animal, lifted his hand and shouted.

The horse jumped backward with a jerk and Meyer landed on his stomach. He got up slowly and uncertainly, and gazed reproachfully at the crowd that looked at him and jerred. He turned toward the scoffers with anger in his face.

"Vy you left at me, chi" he said. "Mine horse he vas to a circus belonged, undt I magks him do tricks," and he turned back to the horse.

"Now, ged up mit your hind legs," he said, persuasively.

The horse looked at him a moment, and then got down in the street and took a good roil.

"Ha!" cried Meyer. "Vat vas it I tole you?

To horse vas cin yewel, nicht wur. Dot's vat I meandt to tell him, to ged down und not up. Now, ged up," and up the horse got.

Again came the muffled roar from Mr. Leary's collection of animals, and with it a policeman, one Michaels by name, who is attached to the West Sixty-seventh street station. He grabbed the Jerseyman with one hand and the horse's haiter with the other and started for the station. "I vas not drunk," protested Meyer.

"You are," said the Jerseyman, "undt mine."

"I vas not drunk," protested Meyer.

"I vas not drunk," protested Meyer.

"You are," said the cop.

"I ain't," said the Jerseyman, "undt mine horse vas circurious," and then he was locked up and the horse was put in the stable.

The Jerseyman was placed in front of Magistrate Deucl in the Yorkville Courty esterday and he explained at length what a treasure he had in his horse before he paid his $3 fine.

GREATER NEW YORK CHARTER EX-PECTED TO PASS THIS WEEK.

The Lauterback Police Hills Are Considered Bend the Auti-Trust Bills to Come Up in the Sen-ALBANY, March 21.-Six weeks remain of the present legislative session, if final adjournment is had on April 29, which date has been suggested by several of the party leaders. The Greater New York charter will no doubt pass the Legislature this week and be sent to the Mayors of the cities affected unless the unforeseen happens.

The Lauterbach bills providing at once for a Greater New York Police Commission are considered dead. Senator Stranahan, Chairman of the Senate Cities Committee, and Assemblyman Austin, Chairman of the Assembly Cities Committee, are averse to introducing them unless They believe, with Goy. Black, that the passage of such legislation would, from a party stand point, be decidedly injudicious. The amendments to the Raines Liquor Tax law will be pressed as soon as the New York charter is out of the way. The New York city Gas Reduction bill, reported last week by the Senate Committee on Miscel laneous Corporations, will be considered by the Senate this week in general orders. It is not expected that any bill will be reported to reduce the price of gas in Brooklyn.

The Annual Supply bill will be reported in the Assembly to-morrow night from the Assembly Ways and Means Committee,

The report and bills of the Lexow Trust Investigating Committee will come up in the Senate on Tuesday as a special order. This will occasion a long debate, mainly on account of the enon Tuesday as a special order. This will occasion a long debate, mainly on account of the endeavor of both parties to make plain to the neople their position on the question of restricting the operation of trusts.

Gov. Black's bill, providing for the State ownership of the lands in the Adirondacks, will have a hearing pefore the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday afternoon. The Governor has agreed to several amendments to the bill suggested by the lumber and pulp interests, but representatives of these interests will wait upon him again on Monday and get his approval of several other amendments which they think are needed to protect their interests.

The ultimate fate of the Ellsworth bill, which is now in the Senate Codes Committee, is problematical. A few of the Republican leaders think the introduction of the bill has had its desired effect, and that there will be less cause for complaint in the future. Therefore they favor opping the bill where it is. Senator Ellsworth ersists in pressing the measure, and says it will be passed and signed by the Governor.

The Anti-Scalpers bill has not yet been reported from committee in either house.

The bill incorporating the New York Law School, which Frank H. Platt, son of Senator Platt, is endeavoring to get through the Legislature, will come up in general orders in each house this week.

JERSEY LAWMAKERS WINDING UP.

Work in Both Houses in Shape for an Adjourn ment This Week. TRENTON, N. J., March 21.-There is no reason why the Legislature should not finish its work and adjourn next Friday, except that there is a disposition on the part of some of the members to prolong the session merely because the leaders want to end it. These kickers are the men who were unsuccessful in the contest for preference at the organization, and have interfered somewhat with the despatch of business eve since.

The appropriation bills, the Borough bill, and the constitutional amendments are the only matters of importance that remain to be considered. The Appropriations Committee will give a hearing to-morrow, and ought to be able to adjust all differences of opinion with one hear-ing. The Borough bill is still in committee, but will probably be reported to morrow evening in the Senate. A commission was appointed a year ago to draft a bill applicable to all the boroughs of the State, but the members did nothing until wo weeks ago. The borough question will not be permitted to interfere with adjournment if the other matters are out of the way.

On Tuesday evening the House Judiciary Committee will give a hearing to the judiclary amendments to the Constitution, which have been in the committee's hands two weeks with out being considered. There is a strong move ment in favor of dropping the judiciary amend ments entirely and putting through the others Gov. Griggs is opposed to the Voorhees amend and which had been adopted by the Legislature last year. He thinks a plan more satisfactory to the lawyers should be adopted. The friends of the Voorhees plan admit that it is not wholly satisfactory, but contend that it is all that can be had at this time, and they say that the history of the past twenty years shows that there is little likelihood of the lawyers ever agreeing. Senator Voorhees thinks his amendment will pass the House. Neither house has yet considered the biennial sessions amendment, and those who have made a canvass of the House predict that it will fail there if passed by the Senate.

On Tuesday at noon another hearing will be given before the Senate Committee on the Lloyd Marriage License bill, when Mr. Lloyd will have present speakers to refute the statements made by the Camden Methodist ministers last week that the ministers of the State areopposed to the bill. A canvass of the Senators is said to show ten Senators who will yote for the bill, and only another vote is needed.

The Senate has the Jersey City taxation and the Bicycle Baggage bills to dispose of, but the former is a compromise, and the latter has been so amended as to be harmless and practically useless, and there will probably be no opposition to either. The Chief Consul of the New Jersey division of the League of American Wheelmen has sent circulars to all New Jersey members, asking them to write to Senators, urging them to pass the bill. For lack of sufficient postage, the circulars were held up in the Trenton Post Office for three weeks, and were not released until Thursday night, so that they are likely to have little effect.

On Tuesday the Senate will consider Senator Harris's scheme to abolish boards of freeholders and substitute five commissioners to govern counties. The bill has been mended so that the voters of a county muri, approve the change before it is made, but even with this concession the lawyers should be adopted. The friends of the Voorhees plan admit that it is not wholly and substitute five commissioners to govern counties. The bill has been smended so that the voters of a county must approve the change before it is made, but even with this concession there is much operation to the bill.

The calendars of both houses are in good shape, the alght sessions of the Assembly last week having disposed of many unimportant bills. Both houses will probably hold three sessions a day during this week, beginning on Tuesday, unless it shall be determined to continue the session another week. The Republicans will hold a joint conference on Tuesday to decide the question. On Wednesday another joint session of the Legislature will be held to elect Commissioners of Deeds.

FLINT'S FINE FURNITURE

New Yorkers Appreciate Factory Prices.

ADMIRED MR. COREN'S RING.

The Vote Admirer Had to He Avverted Batu

When shining in society Samuel Cohen wears diamonds. He can afford to do this because he is a jeweller. Samuel bestowed the glint of his gems upon a dance at Webster Hall on Saturday night, where he attracted the attention of Della Milson, a young and skittish person living at 65
Carmine street. Miss Wilson admired particularly a solltaire ring gracefully displayed on

"Aint that a lovely stone," she said, enthusias-Aint that a lovely stone," she said, enth-ally. "I'd just like to see how it would lically. "I'd just like to see how it would look on me."

Samuel was flattered. He handed the ring to Miss Wilson, who fitted it on her finger and pressed it rapturously to her bosom. It disappeared. When Samuel hinted at the propriety of an immediate return, she said the ring was lost and that she couldn't find it. Samuel couldn't find it, either. He didn't try. He knew better. A policeman arrested Miss Wilson, and yesterday morning arraigned her in Jefferson Market Court. There she said that her friend, Mr. Cohen, had given her the diamond, but that if he wanted to take back his gift, he could have it. She produced the ring and handed it to him. He declined to make a complaint, and the prisoner was discharged.
